I have seen this temple. It is quite a work of art built by the old Nagar Kings. The space between the pillars indicates the proper distance to be observed in planting the areca nut trees. The temple is of historical interest. The Estimate may be sanctioned

Sir,

I have the honour to submit herewith for favour of sanction a plan and an estimate in duplicate amounting to Rs 2058—"—" for repairing the temples of Sri Agnoreswara Swami, Parvatamma and Nandikeswara at Ikkeri in the Sagar Taluk together with its accompaniment i.e. report from the Assistant Engineer, Sagar Sub

Sub Division. The repairs to the Compound wall are proposed to be deferred till sufficient funds are accumulated for the purpose. I inspected the temples on the 14th December last and consider that the execution of the repairs as per estimate is urgent.

2. The cost may be met out of the Savings at the credit of the institution of Sri Agnoreswara Swami supplemented by a State grant of Rs 500-0-0 in the next official year. As the temple is an ancient one with some historical fame and architectural beauty. its preservation is necessary.

3. The balance at the credit of the institution on 1st April 1907 was Rs 2114-15-2, of which Rs 556-0-0 have been reserved for meeting the Establishment and current charges of the temples till the end of the current official year.

I have the honour to be
Sir,
Your most obedient Servant

Report to accompany the estimate of the probable cost of Repairing the Aghoreswara temple at Ikkere, Sagar Taluk

Ikkere temple is the largest and nicest temple, having a high basement, an equal to which cannot be found any where in Sagar Taluk. Concrete has been put over the central portion of the roofing and the portion is leaking terribly owing to cracks due to the effects of malnad climate. It is now proposed to put on a Second roofing of corrugated Iron Sheeting over the existing one, supported on rafters and reepers with necessary pillars below as shown in Section in the accompanying drawing and the plan of the proposed roofing is also shown in penicil lines. Similar roofing is proposed for the portion between the garbha gudi and central portion. Rain water is drained off by means of Zinc Sheets channels placed at either end having openings at intervals and passing over the projecting cornice Stone Provision has also been

been made for repairing the main tower, for inserting a new door to the Store room, for pointing inside the temple and for other sundry repairs as detailed in the estimate.

Over Parvatha's temple there are lagged joints between the Slabs as shown in the Section and they are to be filled in by cement Concrete and plastered over with cement mortar.

As for compound wall, provision has been made for rebuilding such of the portions with coping as are gone and in need of repairs. Larger doors are required for the main entrances both on the front and rear sides. A lumpsum amount of Rs 20/- will be necessary for stopping the leakages of the roofing in the Nandikeswara temple.
